Flip-Flop Debate (Round 1):

Description :

The Flip-Flop Debate challenges participants to present arguments both for and against a topic within a limited time. This round tests adaptability, critical thinking, and quick decision-making.

Format

- Each participant is given a topic just moments before their turn.
- They must argue in favor of the topic for 45 seconds.
- At the judge's signal (bell, buzzer, or hand gesture), they must switch sides and argue against the topic for 45 seconds.
- At the final signal, they must revert to supporting the topic for another 45 seconds.
- The transition between stances should be seamless and well-articulated.

Judging Criteria

Participants will be evaluated based on:

Content & Argumentation – Strength and depth of arguments on both sides.

Fluency & Adaptability – Ability to transition smoothly between opposing viewpoints.

Clarity & Confidence – Strong voice, structured delivery, and persuasive tone.

Engagement & Expression – Captivating presence and ability to hold the audience's attention.

Scope of Topics

Topics will cover a range of national and global issues, including:

- Social Issues & Ethics: Free speech vs. censorship, privacy vs. security, social media's impact on mental health.
- Science & Technology: AI replacing human jobs, nuclear energy as a sustainable solution, the risks of genetic modification.
- Politics & Governance: Democracy vs. authoritarianism, capital punishment, government surveillance.
- Economy & Business: Universal basic income, cryptocurrency vs. traditional banking, startup culture vs. corporate jobs.
- Education & Society: Online vs. offline education, skill-based learning vs. traditional curriculum, importance of arts vs. STEM.

Round 2: Insight Exchange-Group Discussion Challenge

Description :

The Group Discussion (GD) Challenge is a structured platform for participants to engage in meaningful discussions on contemporary socio-political, economic, and ethical issues. It aims to assess participants' ability to analyze, articulate, and counter arguments logically.

Format

- Participants are divided into groups of 6-10 members.
- Each group is assigned a topic just before the discussion begins.
- The discussion lasts for 15-20 minutes, during which participants must analyze, debate, and respond to counterarguments.
- A moderator (judge) ensures a structured discussion and evaluates participants based on their analytical depth, argumentation skills, and clarity of thought.

Judging Criteria

Depth of Analysis – Ability to explore the topic with facts, logic, and reasoning.

Logical Argumentation – Clear stance with well-structured points.

Communication & Clarity – Confidence, articulation, and persuasiveness.

Engagement & Counterarguments – Ability to interact with others and respond effectively.

Leadership & Initiative – Constructively guiding the discussion

Scope of Topics

Topics will cover a range of national and global issues, including:

- Governance & Politics: Presidential vs. Parliamentary systems, reservation policies, cooperative federalism.
- Economy & Development: Cashless economy, manufacturing vs. service sector, privatization.
- Social Issues & Ethics: Media bias, Uniform Civil Code, urbanization and cultural identity.
- Science, Technology & Sustainability: Investment in research, economic vs. environmental sustainability, nuclear energy.
- Education & Workforce: Skill-based education, gig economy, global competition in academia.

Round 3: British Parliamentary Debate

Description :

The final round follows the British Parliamentary Debate (BPD) format, where four teams compete to argue for and against a motion in a structured setting. This round tests advanced debating skills, argument construction, and rebuttal techniques.

Format

- Four teams participate: Opening Government, Opening Opposition, Closing Government, and Closing Opposition.
- Each team consists of two speakers.
- Each speaker delivers a 7-minute speech, alternating between Government and Opposition.
- Opening teams set the foundation for the debate, while closing teams provide new contributions to strengthen their side.
- Judges evaluate arguments, engagement, strategy, and speaker impact to determine the winners.

Judging Criteria

Argumentation & Reasoning – Logical structure, evidence, and impact analysis.

Engagement & Rebuttal – Counterarguments, responsiveness, and depth of clash.

Persuasion & Style – Clarity, rhetoric, and effective speech delivery.

Strategy & Innovation – Unique contributions, teamwork, and strategic positioning.

Scope of Topics

Topics will focus on high-stakes political, economic, ethical, and philosophical dilemmas, including:

- Governance & Democracy: Compulsory voting, judiciary powers, regional autonomy.
- Economy & Development: Universal basic income, nationalization of industries, cryptocurrency regulations.
- Social Issues & Human Rights: Free higher education, cancel culture, prioritizing economic growth over sustainability.
- Global Affairs & Geopolitics: Economic sanctions, colonial reparations, military intervention.
- Ethics, Philosophy & Technology: Sale of human organs, AI personhood, social credit systems.
